Market Outlook

Jakarta has experienced the second PSBB (Large-scale Social Restriction), after the economy reopened in last June. That was caused by rapid increasing number of convicted Covid - 19 patients. Although this time the restriction is milder than previous, some economy activities cannot function normally as used to be. For that reason, JCI fell 7.0% in this month. We are in the opinion, that the central and local Government have to contain the pandemic Covid - 19 before handling other important issues. At least the number of positive convicted people decrease, even though vaccine approval might still need some times. If that can happen, investors can expect business and consumer confidence will eventually emerge. Beside expectation on economy fully reopening, investors also look forward to seeing the omnibus law being passed in October. Additionally, it could be quite encouraging if the Government can realize 60% of planned budget in 4th quarter of this year where currently only reached 40% of the total allocation.
